"Once again, the Digital Ball was THE place to be for the IT community. We are fortunate to have TechBridge and a cadre of engaged, authentic leaders in Atlanta's technology community, committed to make a difference for the greater good."

Guido Sacchi,
CIO & SVP, Corporate Strategies,
CompuCredit

"Community involvement is key to business success and TechBridge has become a focal point for community service activities for technology professionals. It is an honor to be involved in this effort."

John Seral,
VP and CIO,
GE Infrastructure

TechBridge helps nonprofits use technology to increase capacity to serve the community. We provide IT consulting, hosting and outsourcing services, enabling nonprofits to realize the productivity gains long since enjoyed by the corporate sector. We connect the needs of nonprofits with the skills and financial resources of the technology community.

By supporting the TechBridge Digital Ball, you help hundreds of nonprofits harness the power of technology, assuring a stronger, better community for us all.
