ATLANTA'S npower PROGRAM

“Technology has the power to transform society for the better and TechBridge works to make this a reality for nonprofits in Georgia.”

TechBridge Sponsors Are Changing the World Around Us

For the eighth time in as many years, more than 1,150 technology, business and nonprofit leaders came together in a gala celebration of the possibilities of our time. TechBridge's annual Digital Ball®, presented by Accenture, was once again a stunning success with 94 corporate sponsors participating to raise nearly $1.2 million in cash and in-kind donations to continue the TechBridge mission – to help nonprofits use technology to better serve our community. The annual fundraiser was co-chaired by technology executives Kristin Kirkconnell, SVP and CIO, Atlanta Gas Light, an AGL Resources Company and Jean-Michel Arès, SVP and CIO, The Coca-Cola Company.

Revolution was the theme of the 2008 Digital Ball held on May 10, 2008 at the Georgia World Congress Center. The festive evening which included dinner, dancing, and high-energy artistic performances also honored significant achievements with the presentation of the seventh annual Technology Innovation Award, given by Accenture, to MedShare International.

In preparation for the much anticipated event, TechBridge welcomed key participants and sponsors to the Digital Cocktail, its annual VIP reception. More than 100 guests attended this year's reception hosted by The Coca-Cola Company on March 27, 2008. Among the VIP guests were TechBridge's Technology Innovation Award Judges, Digital Ball Hosts, Board of Directors and leading sponsors of the 2008 Digital Ball.

Enthusiasm is already building for next year's Digital Ball. Make plans early to attend what has become the premier event within Atlanta's technology community. For sponsorship information, visit www.techbridge.org.
